Inside The News:

- Capitol Arena, redolent of blood and sweat, if not tears and toil, has come to the end of the road and will be torn down. George Clifford, in a nostalgic, tho not exactly regretful mood, tells of some of the things that went on in the old sports barn. Page 62.
- A new mood is taking hold in Western Europe, foreshadowing new trouble for the United States in dealing with its allies. Paradoxically, it is a mood of optimism, writes Samuel Lubell in the first of a series of three articles on page 39.
- Columnist Richard Starnes examines former CIA chief Allen Dulles' new book, "The Craft of Intelligence," in the light of his own recent experiences with CIA operatives in Viet Nam and comes to the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is somewhat less than successful in his defense of CIA's methods and techniques. - Columnist Inez Robb, writing from Copenhagen, waxes rhapsodic about Danish food: "... Denmark is the one country in the world where it is a waste of valuable time to do anything but eat... The fatted calf is killed every hour on the hour, and the resulting Danisher schnitzel is a true Scandinavian theme poem."
